

Ingardus Bios

Experience

Focused on the insurance industry, Ingardus augments a company's executive team when additional resources are required to capitalize on an opportunity or to mitigate an issue. We also help organizations and individuals not in the insurance industry by bringing our same creative and regulatory efficient approach to your insurance questions and problems. We know the insurance business and its benefits if used properly and in a suitable way for business. Additionally, regulators turn to us for market conduct services, due diligence and other special projects.

Ingardus' principals, Michael Kilkenny and Angela Ohlmann, formed Ingardus to offer an alternative to the typical consultant and examiner roles. Michael and Angela previously held critical roles as a regulator, Big 4 auditor and industry executives. They recognized a need for professionals who could formulate comprehensive solutions and alternatives that work for both regulatory and industry. They fill that need. Ingardus solves insurance problems and issues with integrity, strength and experience.
