

Services Overview

Ingardus provides business advisory services focused primarily on insurance questions and problems.

We categorize our services offerings into three broad categories:

- For individuals, businesses and organizations outside of the insurance industry, we help answer your insurance-related questions and solve your problems, including suspected insurance fraud, insurance policy reviews and product suitability;
- For insurers and related businesses, we provide additional resources needed for you to capitalize on an opportunity or to mitigate an issue; and
- For insurance regulators, we provide market conduct services, Form A assistance and resources for special projects.

Solutions

We provide tangible, workable solutions to your insurance issues and opportunities. We know the insurance business and its many benefits if used properly and in a suitable way.

Insurance can affect businesses, organizations and individuals in many ways. If you have insurance questions or problems – whether you are inside the industry or not – we can help. Ingardus delivers:

- Breadth and Depth. We have been employed on virtually all sides of the insurance industry – regulatory roles, executive officers for multi-billion dollar companies, independent auditors, and consultants. We have held strategy, product development, operational, legal, and financial responsibility positions for insurance companies. We understand how insurers, third-party administrators, agencies and agents operate. We know because we have managed, audited and regulated them. We provide you with a unique combination of industry knowledge and first-hand experience.
- Creativity. We create and help implement practical and functional solutions. We think several steps ahead so that you have solutions that work for you long term.
- Practicality. We have hired experts and service providers across the country during our executive careers. One of the best lessons we learned was that having knowledge and experience was not enough. The best business partners had knowledge, experience and something extra – they “got it.” We provide you with the type of service we sought when we were in your shoes.

Insurance can be complicated.
